

Dear Lord,

Though circumstances look dreary,
Though storms are raging, You are still good.

Though wars are waging,
Though darkness is encroaching, You are still good.

Though my hope is weary,
Though my heart is exhausted, You are still good.

In every difficulty,
In every question mark, You are still good.

I see Your goodness on the peaks.
I see Your goodness in the pit. You are still good.

Now Lord, be my Remembrance.
In the moments of heartache,
In the miles of wilderness,
In the marrow of the unknown, You are still good.
